Volume 1, Issue 1       Summer 2007

Message from the Media Librarian

It’s beginning to look a lot like summer! Responsibilities have lessened for some of us. Others continue at a very busy pace. In this first issue of the Educational Resources Newsletter, you will find information to assist with your classroom instruction no matter your level of activity. New materials come into the unit on a regular basis. Databases and many instructional materials can be accessed from locations outside the University Libraries. Some of these will be highlighted along with services that could enrich your instruction sections.

ERC Reserve Service

Would you like to enhance your instruction sessions by showing a film but you can’t find the class time to do so? Do you already have a motion picture title on a list to view outside of class time? Place the film on reserve in Educational Resources Collections. Your students can view the film in ERC and be prepared to discuss it the next time the class meets. Placing the material on reserve ensures that it will be available for all of your students in a timely manner.
