While there are no specific courses that a student must take in high school to be considered for admission as an art major, observational drawing is an important part of the portfolio. Drawing and other courses in art are recommended.

The Admissions Committee carefully screens all applicants for entry into the first-year program on the basis of:
1. Academic record - A review of high school transcripts; SAT and/or ACT composite scores.
2. Portfolio of 10—15 original works of art demonstrating studio art skills and other art-related abilities.
3. Inventory sheet that lists the work submitted. Indicate title, course, media, size, and date or term completed.

*Transcripts submitted to Ball State Office of Admissions will be reviewed as part of the scholarship and art application.

Criteria for First-Time Freshmen

Applications from transfer students will be evaluated for admission at any of the deadlines for “incoming freshman” or students who have completed the core during the summer by taking a core set of undergraduate art courses (ADS 101, 102; AFA 101, 202) and have a minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA. Currently enrolled deadlines:

- Spring Review (January) - Review information will be made available in the art office and on our website.

The Admissions Committee will screen currently enrolled students for either deadline based upon the following material:
1. Academic record - Current academic record at Ball State (DegreeWorks); SAT and/or ACT scores.
2. Portfolio of ten works of art demonstrating college level art skills; especially those explored in the first-year foundation courses (ADS 101, 102; AFA 101, 202), including a minimum of 3 drawings from direct observation. Students who have completed four or more studio courses are encouraged to submit work representing all courses, and may also include 200-level studio work.
3. Inventory sheet that lists the work submitted. Indicate title, course, media, size, and date or term completed.

The college academic records of a currently enrolled student is given greater consideration by the Admissions Committee than previous high school academic record or the SAT or ACT composite scores. A student’s portfolio, course grades and GPA will be evaluated based upon the level of achievement beyond the minimum course or grade requirements.

Criteria for Transfer Students

Applications from transfer students will be evaluated for admission at any of the deadlines for “incoming freshman” or students who have completed the core during the summer by taking a core set of undergraduate art courses (ADS 101, 102; AFA 101, 202). Transfer students are advised to request summer admittance to the university so they can complete the first-year foundation core courses before beginning an area of specialization in a fall term (see above LEAP information for students currently enrolled at Ball State).

The Admissions Committee will screen transfer applicants using the following material:
1. Academic record - A review of college transcripts; SAT and/or ACT composite scores .
2. Portfolio of 10—15 works of art demonstrating studio art skills and other art-related abilities.
3. Inventory sheet that lists the work submitted. Indicate title, course, media, size, and date or term completed.

The college academic record of the transfer student is given greater consideration by the Admissions Committee than previous high school academic record or the SAT or ACT scores. For transfer students, both course work and GPA will be evaluated. Before final acceptance into the art program, applicants must first be admitted to the University.

Course Evaluation

Transfer students who have studio art or art history credit must undergo a separate evaluation of coursework to determine art program credit. In addition to submitting the art program application, transfer students from other universities are also required to submit a portfolio of artwork and course syllabi to determine course-to-course transfer equivalencies. Evaluation of coursework is arranged only after students have been cleared for Ball State admission.

We recommend transfer students:
- Keep their course syllabi, project descriptions, and sketchbooks.
- Preserve artwork or projects (actual work or digital images) from each course;
- Bring all of their materials for any review process; and
- To follow through with any part of the process that was not completed at the first meeting.

There are no admission quotas by race, sex, state of residence, or expressed discipline preference. The number of students admitted to the first-year program is in accordance with the ability of the department to provide space and studio sections of required courses.
Students interested in a major in art must submit a portfolio to gain admission to the undergraduate programs in the School of Art. Applicants should submit 10—15 original works of art for regular admission and for scholarship consideration. In preparation of a portfolio the artwork selected should represent your current creative and technical abilities; for high school students this generally means artwork completed in your junior and senior year.

What Should be in a Portfolio?

If you have taken a number of art courses, a variety of media should be represented. Pick your best work. Work can come from classroom assignments, sketchbooks, workshops, pre-college programs, or work done “on your own” outside the classroom. When selecting pieces for your portfolio in addition to subject matter, consider technique, concept, design, composition, and works that demonstrate creative problem solving.

All artwork must be original. Copies of published works are unacceptable. Primary consideration will be given to originality and creativity.

Include the following in your portfolio:

Drawings: It is recommended that at least 3 drawings from direct observation are included as part of your portfolio demonstrating a proficient use of line and value to render form and space. Drawing from observation means working directly from a real object, environment, or person (not from a photograph, magazine, or copied from a reproduction of another artist’s work).

The best drawings are familiar objects (still life), self-portraits, figure drawings, landscapes, and interior/exterior environments. Observational drawing is an important part of your portfolio and should reflect some diversity in subject matter and media such as graphite, charcoal, conte crayon, pastels, colored pencil, or pen and ink.

A painting from direct observation can take the place of a drawing in your portfolio. Digital drawings are not acceptable in this category.

What NOT to include in your portfolio:

Old work should not be considered, your most recent work will usually be the strongest work. More is not always better; in other words do not include more work for the sake of having a lot to show. Be sure to choose your best work.

Think quality over quantity.

Copies from magazines, comic books, animation, CD covers, or movie posters. Remember work should be your own. What are you trying to accomplish, convey, or express in a piece or series of pieces? Remember that work needs to be original. Avoid overused, stereotyped or timeworn imagery.

Refer to the following page for guidelines for submitting your portfolio.
The School of Art will host an Open House and Portfolio Review on Saturday, February 20, 2016 for high school seniors and juniors. Bring your questions about the School of Art undergraduate programs, admissions and scholarships. On this day students bring 10–15 original works of art to be reviewed for admission consideration.

- Presentation of your work is important. Take pride in your artwork and how you present it. A portfolio case can be purchased at any art store to protect your work. Since many portfolios are similar in appearance, please clearly label the outside of your portfolio with your name.
- Decide what you want to include in your portfolio and then clean the work up as much as possible. Sketchbooks can also be included as part of your portfolio.
- If your portfolio is accepted, notification of final admission decisions will be e-mailed.*
- If your portfolio is NOT accepted, a revised or improved portfolio may be resubmitted to meet the April 1 deadline.
- Consideration for art scholarships is contingent upon your acceptance as a Ball State student and your enrollment as an art major for the upcoming academic year. Please review scholarship information at bsu.edu/art/scholarships.

*Note: Transcripts and test scores submitted to Ball State will be reviewed as part of the scholarship and art program application. Before final acceptance into the art program, applicants must first be admitted to Ball State University.

Submitting Digital Materials

Digital Portfolio - We recommend that you use the online PowerPoint template to create your PowerPoint presentation. Do NOT submit actual artwork (folders, notebooks or binders), printed photographs, flash drives, or links to personal websites.

If applying for art scholarships only one portfolio needs to be submitted. Please do not send duplicates. Documentation of the digital portfolio must include a typed inventory sheet that lists the works submitted and corresponds to the order of the PowerPoint.

Please consider the following when creating your PowerPoint:

- Digital images must be formatted as JPEG. Resize the image to 72 DPI, with no more than 1100 pixels on the longest side, and the final file size being no greater than 20 MB.
- The PowerPoint slide show should include a title slide labeled with the student name and area of interest, followed by JPEG images of your artwork.
- Each PowerPoint slide should be labeled with the title of the work (or course prefix and number), medium, size, and date/term.
- Please refrain from using any sound, music, animations, transitions, word art, or graphics in the PowerPoint.
- Three-dimensional artwork can be documented from more than one viewpoint to adequately represent the work.
- Additional viewpoints or details should be included if you feel the work cannot be shown adequately from a single view.
- Only slide shows in PowerPoint format composed and saved as a single PDF file will be considered.

Application materials will not be returned. The portfolio and scholarship materials submitted becomes a permanent part of the applicant’s art admission file.
