Community & Economic Development
Glossary of Terms

Basic Employment
Associated with business activities that provide services primarily outside the area via the sale of goods and services, but whose revenue is directed to the local area in the form of wages and payments to local suppliers.

Business Attraction or Recruitment
Marketing or other activities designed to persuade businesses to choose a community as a location.

Business Retention and Expansion (R&E)
Supporting and assisting local businesses with an expansion or helping them to overcome an obstacle that prevents them from remaining competitive, usually done through company visits and/or surveys.

Capital Costs
The costs a business pays for major physical improvements, such as buildings, equipment, or machinery.

Commission
A group of citizens organized under statute to perform certain tasks or duties in the public interest. An economic development commission is a good example of citizens who have been appointed to the task of developing strategies to improve the local economic base.

Community Profile
Information about a community including taxes, transportation networks, health and recreation facilities, labor rates and skill levels, market proximity, available sites and industrial parks, nearest major cities, companies already doing business in the community, utilities, government organizations, and educational facilities, that is usually presented in or with a brochure to an attraction prospect.

Development Authority
An independent agency of local government that possesses certain powers beyond those of city government. A public housing authority is a good example because it has the ability to issue special bonds for public housing.

Economic Base
The major business activities that create and bring wealth into a community (e.g. manufacturing services, tourism, etc.)

Eminent Domain
The authority of a government to take, or to authorize the taking of, private property for public use, almost always with adequate compensation to the owner.

Entrepreneurship
Starting a business, taking a product or service from idea stage to market.

Guaranteed Loan
A loan that is guaranteed partly or fully for the benefit of protecting a lender against possible losses.
Industrial Park
A tract of land that is divided and developed according to a plan for the location or expansion of businesses and industries, with the basic infrastructure installed before the sites are sold.

Infrastructure
The physical structure that supports and sustains communities and economic development (e.g. roads, waste treatment systems, utility systems, railroads, telecommunications).

Insured Loan
A loan insured by a governmental agency or a private mortgage insurance company.

Interest Subsidy
A grant designed to lower the interest costs of borrowing. The subsidy either goes directly to the borrower or is paid on his or her behalf.

Land-use Planning
Planning for proper use of land, taking into account such factors as transportation and location of business, industry, and housing.

Leveraging
A means of multiplying the availability of funds for economic development or community development programs by using one pot of money as a match or lever to access a larger amount of money.

Option to Buy
An arrangement to permit one to buy or sell something within a specified period of time, usually according to a written agreement.

Ordinance
A rule or law established by the local governing body to control actions of citizens and the effects of their activities on others.

Placemaking
Placemaking is the act of supporting Primacy of Place™ through creating a community culture that nurtures wellness, happiness, and prosperity and puts human interests at the center of community economic development.

Primacy of Place™
Primacy of Place™ represents a community’s strategic choice to dedicate their resources toward the improvement of life experiences for residents, businesses, and visitors.

Public Works
Facilities constructed for public use and enjoyment with public funds, such as ramps, highways, sewers, in contrast to maintenance activities, such as street cleaning and painting school buildings.

Quasi-public Agency
Usually a non-profit corporation with a privately appointed board of directors whose purpose is to assist governmental agencies and the private sector to improve the general living standards of citizens. The majority of funds for such activities come from public agencies.

Revolving Loan Fund
Pool of local and/or state monies loaned to businesses at low interest rates for expansion and retention. The interest generated from the loans goes back into the pool to create additional funds to be loaned in the future.
Small Business Incubator
A facility that offers low rent and inexpensive shared business services to start up businesses for a designated period of time. Usually associated with an indigenous growth strategy pursued by a community.

Tax Abatement
A reduction in property taxes for a specific property over a certain period of time. (Also called tax phase in.)

Tax Incentives
Tax reductions, abatements, credits, and programs designed to persuade companies to locate or expand in a state or community.

Technical Assistance
Providing information, data, and know-how in establishing, implementing, and evaluating economic development initiatives and activities.

Value Added
Adding market value (monetary) to raw materials or a product by processing, handling, labeling, packaging, transporting, etc.

Workforce Development
Public and private education and training programs designed to increase skills, education, abilities, and knowledge of members of the workforce.

Established in 1984 by the Indiana General Assembly as the Indiana Economic Development Academy, Building Better Communities (BBC) is a statewide public service unit of Ball State University. Our mission is to help build self-sufficient Indiana communities by increasing the knowledge and ability of development professionals, government officials, and volunteers.

Federal Home Loan Bank (FHLB)
http://www.fhlbi.com
8250 Woodfield Crossing Blvd, Indianapolis, IN 46240
Phone: (317) 465-0200

The mission of the Federal Home Loan Bank System is to provide access to housing and to improve the quality of communities by extending credit through its more than 6,100 member banks, thrifts and others. The FHL Bank System plays a critical role in the continuous flow of funds to the residential mortgage market. These funds originate with the sale of debt securities, called consolidated obligations, in the capital markets. The sales provide funds that are loaned to member financial institutions, which in turn provide mortgage, credit to homebuyers.

Indiana Arts Commission (IAC)
http://www.in.gov/arts
100 North Senate Avenue, Room N505, Indianapolis, IN 46204
Phone: (317) 232-1268

IAC encourages the presence of the arts in communities of all sizes while promoting artistic quality and expression. IAC advocates arts development opportunities across the state, and stewards effective use of public and private resources for the arts.

Indiana Association of Cities and Towns (IACT)
http://www.citiesandtowns.org
200 S. Meridian St., Suite 340, Indianapolis, IN 46225
Phone: (317) 237-6200

IACT serves as the official voice of Indiana municipal government in the General Assembly, representing municipal interests with a staff of professional lobbyists. The staff also maintains contact with the Indiana Congressional delegation on federal issues.

Building Better Communities (BBC)
(765) 285-2773
http://www.bsu.edu/bbc

Building Better Communities provides one-stop service to partners across Indiana by connecting them with Ball State University expertise and resources that help solve local problems. Through customized efforts, our work results in stronger businesses, improved communities, and more efficient government agencies.

Immersive learning is the hallmark of a Ball State education. Student driven teams work with communities, businesses, and government agencies to develop real-world solutions to real-world problems. Building Better Communities is Ball State’s front door for community partners seeking to benefit from bright, passionate students’ immersive learning projects.

In addition to immersive learning, Building Better Communities offers strategic planning, research, consulting, subject-matter experts, and training.

Center for Business and Economic Research (CBER)
(765) 285-5926
http://www.bsu.edu/cber

The Center for Business and Economic Research (CBER) is the main research unit within the College of Business at Ball State University. The Center works with businesses and governments to assist them in their research and information needs.

College of Architecture and Planning, Indianapolis Center
(317) 822-6167
http://www.bsu.edu/capic

CAP:IC is part of a diverse family of design centers nationwide. Some are associated with universities while others are independent non-profit organizations. Design centers take on a wide array of purposes. Some focus primarily on advocacy and community-building. Others do actual design and planning that result in construction documents and plans that are built. CAP:IC falls somewhere in the middle with a mix of advocacy, community building, and facilitating conceptual design and planning.

Plastics Research and Education Center
(765) 285-5695
http://www.bsu.edu/plastics

The plastics center uses the resources of Ball State University to address the needs of the plastics industry in Indiana. The vision is to have the targeted region recognized as a global leader in the plastics industry. The mission is to provide strategies and support implementation of those strategies in order to create a substantial and sustainable advantage for plastics companies.

IBRC (Indiana Business Research Center)
(812) 855-5507 -or- (317) 274-2979
http://www.ibrc.indiana.edu

Established in 1925, the Indiana Business Research Center is an integral unit in the Kelley School of Business at Indiana University. The IBRC provides and interprets the economic information needed by the state’s business, government and nonprofit organizations, as well as users of such information throughout the nation.

The IBRC maintains databases on numerous topics such as income, employment, taxes, sectors of the economy, education, demographics and a host of other economic indicators for the nation, the state and local areas. In addition, the Center conducts original research to generate needed information when existing data are not available or sufficient.

The many web sites developed and maintained by the IBRC include:

- IBRC Trends & Analysis (www.ibrc.indiana.edu)
- STATS Indiana (www.stats.indiana.edu)
- Census 2010 in Indiana (www.census.indiana.edu)
- National Clearinghouse for the State Data Center Program (www.sdcbidc.iupui.edu)
