Why Take Year Book?

If no one takes Year Book, We won't have a yearbook. It's that simple!

Journalism Students perform better in college!

- Journalism kids do better in 10 of 12 major academic areas.
- Journalism kids write better in 17 of 20 comparisons of collegiate writing.
- Journalism kids value high school journalism more highly than required English courses in fulfilling major language arts competencies.
- Journalism kids are 'doers' in school—they're more involved in curricular and community activities.
- Journalism students make better high school and college grades than their peers with no newspaper or yearbook staff experience. They earn higher scores than their peers on the ACT standardized examinations. Their writing is better. And they are more involved in their schools and off-campus communities.
- Students who work on High School Newspapers Perform Higher in Language Arts
