Let’s Talk About Sexual Assault

Campus sexual assault has long been an issue, and now it is more visible than ever. Many people — from student activists to the national “It’s On Us” campaign — are taking action. It’s time for all of us to act, to use our voices to change the culture around sexual assault on campus.

- As many as one in five women are sexually assaulted in college.
- While in college, one in 16 men are victim of an attempted or completed assault.
- Women ages 18-24 are at an elevated risk of sexual violence.
- Sexual violence is more prevalent at college, compared to other crimes.

Preventing sexual violence on campus takes more than one department, office, club, team, administrator, professor, staff member, or student. It takes all of us working together in big and small ways.

How can you get involved?
- You can start by getting involved in Sexual Assault Awareness Week (SAAW) 2017
- Attend SAAW 2017 events on campus
- Plan an event with your own student organization
- Use social media to spread the word and post what you’re doing online
- Learn more about sexual assault and educate others in your life

Everyone has a voice; this year during SAAW, we encourage you to use your voice to change the culture. For more information contact the Counseling Center at 765-285-1736.
