On-Shelf Holds

This Spring the libraries began to offer a new service: on-shelf holds. When you are logged in to CardCat you will see “Hold/Recall Request” for every listing that qualifies, whether it is checked out or not. Previously, you could only place a recall request on something that was checked out.

Library staff will be notified twice per day about items that have been requested. We pull them from the shelves, and you’ll receive notification that the item is ready for you to pick up. That’s about all there is to it!

Only a few categories of library materials don’t qualify for this service, mainly items that are non-circulating or that circulate only for a very brief loan period (such as DVDs or scholarly scores)

CDs will be held for you at the Music Collection counter. Print materials (scores, books) will be held for you at the main level circulation desk.

Renovation Project

Renovation has begun in Bracken Library to reshape space for Unified Technology Support (UTS), a unit in the Information Technology Group. The unit’s director is Daniel R. Lutz. The project is projected to be completed by June 17, 2011, and the contractor is W.R. Dunkin and Son, Inc., Anderson, Indiana

The identified space is on Bracken Library’s first floor, west side. Approximately 11,500 square feet is being renovated, of which 8,500 is for UTS office and service spaces.

In this new gathering space, UTS will bring together institutional support functions and the university community. UTS will use this environment to encourage the use of emerging technologies and the development of learner centered content and tools. UTS seeks to enhance the knowledge and collaboration of the university community in the development and utilization of new and emerging technologies for teaching and learning.

Yes, they still call it “Spring” semester even though the weather was dreadful. The Music Collection has been busy fulfilling requests for assignments and recreational listening. People seem to have adjusted to the added shelf space, but we are always happy to help you find books and scores on the shelf. Be sure to try out the new “on-shelf” holds service (described below). You don’t have to worry about navigating the stacks again!

Library Instruction for Applied Students

Have you ever sent your student to the library to find a song or piece for the next week’s lesson only to have them return empty-handed? Has your voice student used Babel Fish to translate an assigned aria?

Many performance specialties have terminology or format issues particular to that specialty. They also have special library resources, such as bibliographies. Music Majors are introduced to library tools and principles in MuHis 200 and 330, but sometimes additional instruction in their performance or study area will make it easier for them to find what they need.

Just let me know if you want me to visit with your studio or class. I can also create an online or printed subject guide especially tailored for your students.

Music Index Online

After a month-long trial period for Music Index online, it was apparent that it offered many advantages over International Index to Music Periodicals. Beginning this Fall, Music Index will replace International Index to Music Periodicals amongst the library databases. With full text of many articles, it will soon become one of your favorite library resources.

Music Index was the first indexing service for music, beginning in 1949. It indexes books and popular magazines as well as scholarly journals. This will make it a good resource for music majors and non-majors alike. Although print volumes ceased over ten years ago, the online version is up to date.

The interface for Music Index is Ebscohost, the same company that hosts RILM Abstracts and ERIC education abstracts. You will be able to search all three simultaneously.

Access is via the libraries’ database page, either from the alphabetical list or on the Music Databases page.
