Dr. William R. Clark Scholarship

Dr. William R. Clark joined the Department of Psychological Science in 1971 and was a valued faculty member until his death in 1999.

He taught a wide range of courses from introductory psychology to graduate courses in physiological psychology and psychopharmacology. These courses were very popular both because Dr. Clark was a skilled teacher and he was a kind, warm person.

He was an active mentor to students interested in research. He supervised dozens of undergraduate research projects and master's theses. He was the faculty sponsor of Psi Chi, the department's honor society.

Nearly $21,000 in contributions and pledges have already been raised to honor his service to Ball State and his students. We invite you to join us in building this endowment that will assist talented and dedicated students and extend his influence long into the future.

We hope that you are interested in helping us build the William R. Clark Psychological Science Scholarship Fund (foundation account number 3352). The Department can be reached by telephone (765-285-1690) or email (bwhitley@bsu.edu). As always, we look forward to hearing from you.

William and his wife
Louise Clark