

University Libraries' Copyright Guidelines for Copyright Compliance Translated into Slovenian for Use in Slovenia

In November 2011, Dr. Fritz Dolak, Copyright and Intellectual Property Manager, was contacted by Dr. Victor Zdrawlica, an educator in Ljubljana, Slovenia. He was inquiring about creating a derivative work of the University Libraries' Copyright Guidelines for Copyright Compliance. In Slovenia, Dr. Zdrawlica is involved in a project there entitled, Legal Law Library.

The Legal Law Library (LLL) is a freemium-model, that is, a combination of “free” and “premium” database, a non-English language-oriented collection of scientific articles, marketing information, various types of data, and personal notes, among other materials. The LLL is in several European languages and since 1999 has been collaboratively edited by professors, students, and volunteers from around the world.

From among the many international copyright materials available, searching through Google lead Dr. Zdrawlica to Ball State University Libraries' Copyright Guidelines for Copyright Compliance and asked permission to translate this page into Slovenian for the LLL. The Slovenian translation is completed and now online at Smernice za skladnosti Copyright .

This translation of the University Libraries' Guidelines into Slovenian for the European Legal Law Library internationally enhances the image of Ball State University Libraries as being a reliable, trustworthy, responsible, international resource for copyright and intellectual property information.

For more information, contact Dr. Fritz Dolak, University Libraries' Copyright and Intellectual Property Manager and Special Assistant to the Dean, FDolak@bsu.edu , 765-285-5330.